Sensory profile

It appears a vibrant, energy-laden golden yellow, calling to mind the yellow pulp of Isabelle plums; the light from the wine in the glass conjures up the sun's rays and visions of ripe plum. The bouquet opens slowly to impressions of pear marmalade and apricot preserves, then a few moments of breathing release a succession of honeycomb, candied fruit, and dried fruit and nuts, such as almond, and a subtle note of tropical fruit. Overall, the bouquet is elegant, ripe and seductive. The palate displays impressive personality, with a forward minerality and ultra-crisp acidity that make this wine a superb thirst-quencher. The notably-dry progression concludes with a long-lingering, pleasantly-bitterish finish that makes this a tangy partner for full-flavoured, aromatic dishes.

Serving suggestion

Very summer wine, this Ribolla Gialla will be perfect with light Italian antipastos, but also with crudités and sushi.
